

Title: An Overview of the Howard University GK-12 Program

Marcus Alfred, Assistant Professor, Howard University

Abstract: An overview is presented of the NSF sponsored Howard University GK-12 Program. The program places graduate students (fellows) into middle schools in metropolitan Washington DC. The fellows develop science activities and modules with middle school teachers during the academic year. <http://gk12.huscience.org>